-Since the dedication of the bandsome new Presbyterian church of this place, three years ago, a debt of $2,200 has hung over it like a dead weight. A short time before the holidays the members of the congregation took it into their heads to make themselves a Christmas gift in the form of a wiping out of this irksome incubus, and in a remarkably short time they had the satisfaction of seeing this debt cancelled by liberal subscriptions. And now the edifice stands clear of debt of any sort, and the congregation is doubtiess much happier.

Recent Deaths. RODGERS.

A Tylersburg correspondence to the Clarion Republican gives the following regarding the death of a young man whose father, W. J. Rodgers, is well known to most of our citizens: "Sad news reached here Saturday of the death of Charley Rogers, son of W. J. Rogers of this place. Charley was well known here having moved here with his parents about ten years ago. He had spent the last four years in Pittaburg teaching in a bu-iness college and later as a bookkeeper. He was taken down with pneumonia and although his case known to be serious vet his death was unexpected His mother, residing here, was with him the past two weeks, returning home last Thursday, Charley apparently being on the road to recovery. She received a telegram Saturday stating his death. He leaves a wife and three swall children, beside a father, mother, five sisters, and one brother to mourn his loss. IRWIN.

Francis H. Irwin, aged 27 years, a ne- Pictures for Framing. phew of our townsman Samuel D. Irwin, Esq., and who was well known in Tionests where he had been a frequent visitor at his uncle's home, died suddenly Thursday of last week on his ranch near Hood River, Oregon. He was reared in Franklin, and the fellowing facts are taken from a dispatch from that city under date of Jan. 3: A telegram announcing Mr. Irwin's death was received here today. No particulars were giren, but Miss Hannah G. Irwin received a letter during the forenoon from her brother, H. May Irwin, also at Hood River, stating that his son spent Christmas in bed, having experienced an attack of grip. A sudden complication is thought to have caused death. The deceased was born in this city and got his early education here, being graduated from the high school in 1902. He attended Washington and Jefferson college, where he was graduated in 1906, after taking many honors. He taught one year in the academy at Washington and the following year in the Franklin high school. In 1909 be went to Oregon and purchased a ranch on which he raised fruit. The same year his father and two sisters followed and made their home on the ranch. In Septemper, 1911, he went to Portland, Ore., where he taught for nine months and then returned to Hood River. Mr. Irwin leaves, besides his father, two brothers and two sisters, as follows: Hiram L. Iywin, an officer in the United States navy, now stationed in the pavy yard at Washington, D. C; Arthur M. Irwin, of Point Richmond, Cal.: Misses Gertrude and Mary Louise Irwin, both of Hood River.

John Andrew Jones, a well known son of the late Boyd M. Jones, and a noted woodsman and log jobber, died Monday morning, Jan. 6, 1913, at about 8 o'clock, gering illness from diabetes. He was born at Hillard's Mills, Butler county, Pa., on July 3, 1857, and came to Beaver Valley, this county, with his parents when but three months old. At the age of thirteen years he entered the employ of T. D. Collins as a log cutter at Beaver Valley, remaining almost constantly in his employ until a few months ago, when failing health compelled him to cancel his contracts. In addition to working at Beaver Valley, he worked for Messrs. Collins & Co. near Nebraska, in Green township. During this term of years be has managed the cutting of several hundred million cubic feet of logs. He is credited with having fallen and cut into logs probably more standing timber than any other man ever employed in this business in Forest county. He was also an expert in keeping up saws and other edged tools such as are used in the lumber woods, and was a man universally respected by his employers as well as by employes, having a host of triends and acquaintances throughout the county and the lumber country generally, who w regret to hear of his death. He was bright, cheerful disposition and strictly trustworthy and reliable is respect, a good man and citizer father and a true friend. On C 1877, he was married at Gole Belle Smith, Squire James were born as a result
